

When it comes to transit security and communications, HBE puts it all together

Henry Brothers Electronics, Inc., through their Viscom division, provides ruggedized mobile digital video recording and wireless downloading capabilities for transit authorities across the country. Viscom has a MDVR installed base of over 1000 systems, with over 30% having wireless capabilities.

Transit Technology Program Management

- Installations and program management at bus and rail facilities across the US including VTA San Francisco Muni, Denver RTD and pilots at MTA of NY.
- Have deployed over 1000 installed solutions for transit agencies
- Solutions installed during vehicle manufacturing, in transit agency depots and in our own facilities.
- Valuable experience in how to work in conjunction with transit agencies at their own facilities in areas such as track and work place safety and ASE requirement considerations

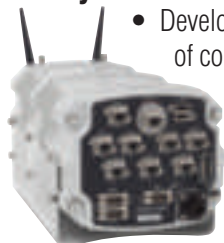

Transit Technology Integrations

- Installs included subsystems for video management, wireless access for data transfer, GPS/AVL, microphones, engine health and status, access control and crash detection
- Other integrations have included ruggedized servers, hardened storage and power management

Emergency Communication Systems For First Responders

- Our experience in providing solutions to extend frequency coverage for first responders for NYPD, FDNY, Port Authority of NY and NJ, and the MTA will aid in the integration of various communication protocols for public safety and communications in transit applications
- Motorola equipment and MSS experience

Cisco MAR Integration to Multiple Sensors, Subsystems and Edge Devices

- Developed a Cisco MAR based solution as a proof of concept for the MTA. Included integration of our own Viscom video platform with the Cisco Surveillance application as well as the MAR with Wi Fi, EVDO and 4.9 cards. Also included were engine interface for health monitoring, GPS for bus location and crash detection.
